

CADRE IS GROWING: Dylan and James

- April 2019

In January 2019, Cadre appointed two candidate town and regional planners, namely Dylan Laloux and James Joubert. We are confident that Cadre will reach new heights with them on our team. Welcome to Cadre!

Dylan is a qualified Town and Regional Planner who completed his studies in 2018 and passed with distinction from the University of Pretoria. His interests lie in strategic planning for both the private and public sector. He also intends to gain experience and delve into property economics, site acquisition and development facilitation.

James has recently graduated from the University of Pretoria with a degree in Town and Regional Planning (with distinction). He has an interest in planning, ranging from local level precinct plans to high level strategic planning. He is, however, aiming to expand his knowledge in all areas of planning and gaining insights into both the public and private sectors of South Africa.

James has also received the Plan Associates - Town and Regional Planning award for the best final year student for the class of 2018. He received ,as part of this, the book prize for his research report (dissertation) titled: "Where to once the last rock is struck: The impact a mine closure can have on a town".
